Would you be open to selling to a direct buyer between 75-77%? We work with a buyer who would execute in this range for you.

Realistically, it may take a week to get your claim listed and then by the time a trade is confirmed it may be a couple of extra days.

Also, claims are trading in the mid 70s in the current market, so the benefit of selling directly would be faster payment (payment approximately by Tuesday) and a smoother process.

How does a direct sale between 75-77% sound?
